Administrative Services

This brief presents research results from an evaluation of how AbilityOne Program employment of individuals with severe disabilities reduces their use of government entitlements and increases their taxpayer contributions. The subject of the study was administrative services contracts acquired through the AbilityOne Program.

The AbilityOne Program is the largest source of employment for people who are blind or have other severe disabilities in the United States. More than 600 community-based nonprofit organizations (NPAs) across the nation participate in the AbilityOne Network. They train and employ these individuals and provide quality goods and services to the federal government at a fair market price.

For the purpose of this research the sample population was comprised of 17 NPAs that have AbilityOne Program administrative services contracts. Conducted in late 2008 by LMI Government Consulting, the study was undertaken on behalf of NISH, one of two central nonprofit agencies that facilitate the AbilityOne Program on behalf of the Committee for Purchase From People Who Are Blind or Severely Disabled, an independent federal agency.

Administrative Services Facts

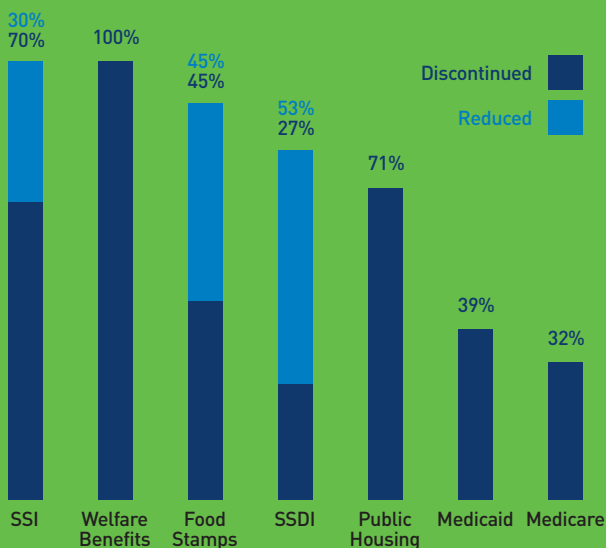

- Seventy percent eliminated receipt of Supplemental Security Income (SSI) as a result of AbilityOne employment on a federal administrative services contract.
- Forty-five percent of employees decreased their use of food stamps and 100% eliminated welfare benefits. The need for unemployment compensation ceased entirely.
- Prior to working on an AbilityOne administrative services contract, only 5 in 10 individuals with severe disabilities were employed. Their average hourly wage as a result of AbilityOne employment is $13.34.
- Employees eliminated their dependence on Medicare by 32% while eliminating their reliance on Medicaid by 39%.
- Average annual wages increased nearly 56% as a result of AbilityOne employment.

Employing individuals with severe disabilities on federal administrative services contracts through the AbilityOne Program saves the federal and state governments an estimated $1.2 million annually. These employees also increase their payments to the government through income and payroll taxes. The net positive impact to the government is an estimated $2.7 million annually.

In all, the employment of 670 full-time equivalents in AbilityOne administrative services contracts positively impacts the annual government balance sheets by $3.9 million. This is an average annual savings of $6,523 per employee.

Percentages are based on the number receiving each particular entitlement one month prior to AbilityOne employment. No reductions in Medicare are shown since individuals are either enrolled in this program or not.

ABILITYONE EMPLOYEES REDUCE RELIANCE UPON GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE

Forty-five percent of employees with severe disabilities who received food stamps just one month prior to their employment on an AbilityOne administrative services contract discontinued this benefit after commencing employment while another 45% reduced their use of this entitlement. One-hundred percent either discontinued (70%) their reliance upon SSI or reduced (30%) the SSI benefits they received as a result of AbilityOne employment on a federal administrative services contracts.

Over two thirds (71%) discontinued their use of public housing benefits. Over one-third (39%) of the individuals with severe disabilities who received Medicaid prior to employment in the AbilityOne Program discontinued this benefit once employed on a federal administrative services contract. Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits discontinued for 27% and reduced for more than half (53%) as a result of employment.
